

Name _____

Correlative Conjunctions

Recognizing Conjunctions

Coordinating conjunctions are words that join two or more words, phrases or clauses, and indicate that two phrase or clauses in a sentence are equally important. The coordinating conjunctions are and, but, for, nor, or, yet and so. Correlative conjunctions come in pairs. They connect the same kinds of words or groups of words as coordinating conjunctions. The correlative conjunctions are both/and, either/or, neither/nor, not only/but also, and whether/or.

DIRECTIONS: Find and circle each conjunction below. If it is a coordinating conjunction, write a C on the line. If it is a correlative conjunction, write COR on the line.

- _____ 1. James has to mow the lawn and clean his room before dinner.
- _____ 2. Mother is packing either tuna sandwiches or peanut butter sandwiches in my lunch.
- _____ 3. We were late getting to the concert, for we couldn't find a parking place.
- _____ 4. Kevin says he only likes ice cream, yet I saw him yesterday eating frozen yogurt.
- _____ 5. When I get some butter, I will make both chocolate chip and peanut butter cookies.
- _____ 6. In the summer we not only water ski, but we also roller skate.
- _____ 7. Terry neither wants to fish nor water ski; she just wants to get a tan.
- _____ 8. Not only did I go to school today, but I also went to the playground.
- _____ 9. We couldn't eat the spinach, nor could we stand the squash.
- _____ 10. Whether you live in Florida or in California, the weather will be nicer than it is here.
- _____ 11. I either want to be a doctor or a lawyer when I grow up.
- _____ 12. We were both determined to do better, and we vowed to practice every day.
- _____ 13. He neither did well during the interview, nor got the job.